address 173.11.224.197, which was used by one or more Defendants in furtherance of the unlawful conduct alleged herein.

III. JURISDICTION & VENUE

4. The Court has subject matter jurisdiction over Microsoft's claims for copyright and trademark infringement pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1121, 17 U.S.C. § 501, and 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1338(a).

5. The Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendants because they purposefully 7 directed their unlawful activities at Washington, and Microsoft's claims arise from those activities. Defendants activated and attempted to activate at least several thousand copies of Microsoft software, much of which was pirated and unlicensed. During the software activation process, Defendants contacted Microsoft activation servers in Washington over two thousand times from 2012 to 2015, and transmitted detailed information to those servers in order to activate the software. Defendants' contact with Microsoft's activation servers was voluntary, intentional and comprised a routine part of Defendants' installation of software. In addition, Defendants expressly aimed their conduct at Washington because they (1) had actual or constructive knowledge of Microsoft's intellectual property rights (including Microsoft's registered copyrights and trademarks) and Microsoft's residence in Washington where it controls its exclusive rights in its trademarks and copyrights; (2) acted, at a minimum, with willful blindness to, or in reckless disregard of, Microsoft's rights, and in reckless disregard of the likelihood that it was infringing Microsoft's copyrights; and (3) knew or should have known that their conduct would cause harm to Microsoft in Washington, because it is foreseeable that infringement of Microsoft's rights would cause harm likely to be suffered in Washington, the state of its residence, incorporation, and headquarters. See Wash. Shoe Co. v. A-Z Sporting Goods, Inc., 704 F.3d 668 (9th Cir. 2012).

6. Venue is proper in this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1400(a) because Defendants are subject to personal jurisdiction in the Western District of Washington. See Brayton Purcell LLP v. Recordon & Recordon, 606 F.3d 1124 (9th Cir. 2010). Venue is also proper in this district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 1391(b) because a substantial part of the events giving rise to the claims occurred in the Western District of Washington.

7. Pursuant to Local Civil Rule 3(d), intra-district assignment to the Seattle Division is proper because the claims arose in this Division, where (a) Microsoft resides, (b) the injuries giving rise to suit occurred, and (c) Defendants directed their unlawful conduct.

IV. FACTS COMMON TO ALL CLAIMS

The Global Problem of Software Piracy

8. Software developers lose billions of dollars in annual revenue from software piracy, namely, the unauthorized and unlawful copying, downloading, and distributing of copyrighted and trademarked software and related components. In 2013, the commercial value of pirated software in the United States was in excess of $9.7 billion. See Business Software Alliance, The Compliance Gap: Global Software Survey (June 2014), http://globalstudy.bsa.org/2013/downloads/studies/2013GlobalSurvey_Study_en.pdf.

9. One prominent form of software piracy is known as "hard-disk loading," the unauthorized commercial copying and installation of infringing software on devices which are often sold in competition with, and often for lower prices than, devices pre-installed with legally licensed copies of software.

10. Software developers, like Microsoft, are not the only victims of software piracy. Consumers are also victims, as they are often deceived by distributors of pirated software who go to great lengths to make the software appear genuine. These customers may unwittingly expose themselves to security risks associated with the use of pirated software. See Federal Bureau of Investigation, Consumer Alert: Pirated Software May Contain Malware, Aug. 1, 2013, at http://www.fbi.gov/news/stories/2013/august/pirated-software-may-contain-malware/ (noting the relatively greater risk that pirated software is infected with malicious software, or "malware," which can be used to record keystrokes and thus capture sensitive information such as user names, passwords, and Social Security numbers).

19	18. Microsoft distributes its software through a number of distribution channels,
20	including the Original Equipment Manufacturer (OEM), volume licensing, subscriptions, and
21	refurbisher channels.
22	19. The Original Equipment Manufacturer ("OEM") distribution channel is one
23	through which Microsoft software is distributed to computer and device manufacturers called
24	OEMs. OEMs customarily pre-install software on the devices they build including, most
25	commonly, the Microsoft Windows operating system.

	COMPLAINT (2:16-cv-00276) – 7 Davis Wright Tremaine LLP

Case 2:16-cv-00276 Document 1 Filed 02/25/16 Page 8 of 15

20. The OEM distribution channel involves sub-channels that supply Microsoft software to different categories of OEMs. Two of these sub-channels are the Commercial OEM channel and the Direct OEM channel.

21. Through the Commercial OEM ("COEM") channel, Microsoft and authorized distributors supply what is called "system builder" software to small and medium-sized OEMs for pre-installation on devices. As described in detail below, this software is required to be individually activated on each device.

22. Through the Direct OEM ("DOEM") channel, Microsoft directly provides software to large computer manufacturers, such as Dell and Lenovo, for pre-installation on devices. The DOEMs acquire some components associated with the Microsoft software from Microsoft Authorized Replicators ("ARs").

23. In addition to the OEM channel, Microsoft offers a number of subscription programs through which it provides software to qualified groups. One example of a subscription program is the Microsoft Developer Network ("MSDN"), which is for individuals and entities that develop third-party software compatible with Microsoft software. MSDN subscribers are able to download certain Microsoft software directly from Microsoft.

24. Microsoft also offers Volume Licensing ("VL") programs for its business customers. Through the VL program, customers purchase licenses for their software and can add, remove, and upgrade their software as their business needs evolve.

D. Product Activation

25. Like many other software developers, Microsoft has implemented a wide-range of initiatives to protect its customers and combat theft and infringement of its intellectual property. One important tool in Microsoft's anti-piracy protection arsenal is its product activation system, which involves the activation of software through product keys.

26. A Microsoft product key is a 25-character alphanumeric string generated byMicrosoft and provided to customers and OEMs. Generally, when customers or OEMs installMicrosoft software on a device, they must enter the product key. Then, as part of the activation process, customers and/or OEMs voluntarily contact Microsoft's activation servers over the Internet and transmit their product keys and other technical information about their device to the servers. The majority of the activations involved in this matter contacted servers that are physically located in Washington.

27. The activation process is analogous to the activation of credit cards or mobile phones with a code provided by the financial institution or the mobile carrier. Because Microsoft's copyrighted software is capable of being installed on an unlimited number of computers, Microsoft relies on the product activation process to detect piracy and protect consumers from the risks of non-genuine software.

28. In the OEM channel, each copy of genuine Microsoft Windows 8 and Windows 7 software is distributed with a product key unique to that copy of the software—thus, for example, if a customer purchases ten copies of Windows 7, the customer is supplied with ten unique product keys. For Microsoft's subscription and VL programs, customers are normally supplied a single product key for each version of Microsoft software they license. For example, subscription and volume licensing customers receive one reusable product key for all Office 2010 Professional licenses authorized under their agreements to install and activate all copies.

29. Microsoft Windows 7 and Windows 8 activation works differently in the COEM and DOEM channels. COEMs use individual product keys to install and activate software on the computer system. DOEMs, on the other hand, use either a master key to install Windows software (as in the case with Windows 7) or a separate file generated from Microsoft to install and activate Windows software (as in the case with Windows 8) for each device.

30. Microsoft Windows Server 2008 and 2012 are activated with unique product keys for each software license.

E. Microsoft's Use of Cyberforensics to Combat Piracy

31. In order to combat the global threat of software piracy of its software, Microsoft relies on investigative methods that leverage state-of-the-art technology to detect software piracy. Microsoft refers to these methods as "cyberforensics."

COMPLAINT (2:16-cv-00276) - 9

Davis Wright Tremaine LLP LAW OFFICES Suite 2200 1201 Third Avenue Seattle, WA 98101-3045 206.622.3150 main - 206.757.7700 fax 32. As part of its cyberforensic methods, Microsoft analyzes product key activation data voluntarily provided by users when they activate Microsoft software, including the IP address from which a given product key is activated. An IP address is a numerical identifier used to uniquely identify an internet-capable device when the device is connected to the Internet. An IP address is ordinarily assigned to an internet user (whether an individual or an entity) by the user's Internet Service Provider ("ISP").

33. Entities charged with managing and administering internet numbering resources, including IP addresses, publish information about IP address assignment and registration in publicly-searchable databases. Akin to an IP address "phone book," these databases can be used to associate each IP address with the individual or entity assigned to use that address. In some cases, the listed individual or entity is actually using the IP address; in other cases, the listed individual or entity is an ISP who has assigned the IP address to one of its customers. Thus, in some instances, the identity of the individual or entity associated with a particular IP address is publicly available; in other instances, the identity of the individual or entity can only be obtained from the ISP assigned to that IP address.

34. Cyberforensics allows Microsoft to analyze billions of activations of Microsoft software and identify activation patterns and characteristics that make it more likely than not that the IP address associated with the activations is an address through which pirated software is being activated.

F. Defendants' Infringing Conduct

35. Microsoft's cyberforensics have identified several thousand product key activations originating from IP address 173.11.224.197 ("the IP Address"), which is presently assigned to Comcast Cable Communications, and which, on information and belief, is being used by the Defendants in furtherance of the unlawful conduct alleged herein. A material percentage of these activations have characteristics that, on information and belief, demonstrate that Defendants are using the IP Address to activate pirated software.

Case 2:16-cv-00276 Document 1 Filed 02/25/16 Page 11 of 15

36. On information and belief, Defendants have activated and attempted to active copies of Windows 8, Windows 7, Office 2010, Windows Server 2012 and Windows Server 2008 with product keys that have the following characteristics:
a. Product keys known to have been stolen from Microsoft's supply chain;

- b. Product keys used more times than is authorized by the applicable software license;
- c. Product keys used by someone other than the authorized licensee; or
- d. Product keys activated outside of the region for which they were intended.

37. On information and belief, each of these activations and attempted activations constitutes the unauthorized copying of Microsoft software, in violation of Microsoft's software licenses and its intellectual property rights.

38. On information and belief, Defendants have been and continue to be involved in installing counterfeit and infringing copies of Microsoft's software and/or related components.

39. On information and belief, Defendants have committed and continue to commit acts of copyright and trademark infringement against Microsoft. On information and belief, at a minimum, Defendants acted with willful blindness to, or in reckless disregard of, Microsoft's registered copyrights, trademarks, and service mark.

> V. CAUSES OF ACTION First Claim Copyright Infringement - 17 U.S.C. § 501 et seq.

40. Microsoft is the sole owner of Windows 8, Windows 7, Office 2010, Windows Server 2012, Windows Server 2008, and of the corresponding copyrights and Certificates of Registration with the registration numbers listed above.

41. Defendants have infringed Microsoft's copyrights by reproducing Microsoft software in the United States of America without approval or authorization from Microsoft.

42. At a minimum, Defendants acted with willful blindness to, or in reckless disregard of, Microsoft's registered copyrights.

44. The award of statutory damages should be enhanced in accordance with 17 U.S.C. § 504(c)(2).

45. Microsoft is further entitled to injunctive relief and an order impounding all infringing materials. Microsoft has no adequate remedy at law for Defendants' wrongful conduct because, among other things: (a) Microsoft's copyrights are unique and valuable property which have no readily determinable market value; (b) Defendants' infringement harms Microsoft such that Microsoft could not be made whole by any monetary award; and (c) Defendants' wrongful conduct, and the resulting damage to Microsoft, is continuing.

Second Claim Trademark Infringement – 15 U.S.C. § 1114

46. Defendants' activities constitute infringement of Microsoft's federally registered trademarks and service mark with the registration numbers listed above.

47. Microsoft advertises, markets, distributes, and licenses its software and related components under the trademarks and service mark described above and uses these trademarks and service mark to distinguish Microsoft's products from the software and related items of others in the same or related fields.

48. Because of Microsoft's long, continuous, and exclusive use of these trademarks and service mark, they have come to mean, and are understood by customers, end users, and the public to signify, software programs and related components or services of Microsoft.

49. The infringing materials that Defendants have and are continuing to install are likely to cause confusion, mistake, or deception as to their source, origin, or authenticity.

50. Further, Defendants' activities are likely to lead the public to conclude, incorrectly, that the infringing materials that Defendants are installing originate with or are authorized by Microsoft, thereby harming Microsoft, its licensees, and the public.

52. As a result of Defendants' wrongful conduct, Microsoft is entitled to recover its actual damages, Defendants' profits attributable to the infringement, and treble damages and attorney fees pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1117 (a) and (b). Alternatively, Microsoft is entitled to statutory damages under 15 U.S.C. § 1117(c).

53. Microsoft is further entitled to injunctive relief and an order compelling the impounding of all infringing materials. Microsoft has no adequate remedy at law for Defendants' wrongful conduct because, among other things: (a) Microsoft's trademarks and service mark are unique and valuable property that have no readily determinable market value;
(b) Defendants' infringement constitutes harm to Microsoft's reputation and goodwill such that Microsoft could not be made whole by any monetary award; (c) if Defendants' wrongful conduct is allowed to continue, the public is likely to become further confused, mistaken, or deceived as to the source, origin or authenticity of the infringing materials; and (d) Defendants' wrongful conduct, and the resulting harm to Microsoft, is continuing.

C. That the Court enter an order pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1116 and 17 U.S.C. § 503 impounding all counterfeit and infringing copies of purported Microsoft software and/or materials bearing any of Microsoft's trademarks or service mark, and any related item, including business records, that are in Defendants' possession or under their control;

D. That the Court enter an order declaring that Defendants hold in trust, as constructive trustees for the benefit of Microsoft, the illegal profits obtained from their distribution of counterfeit and infringing copies of Microsoft's software, and requiring Defendants to provide Microsoft a full and complete accounting of all amounts due and owing to Microsoft as a result of Defendants' unlawful activities;

E. That Defendants be required to pay all general, special, actual, and statutory damages which Microsoft has sustained, or will sustain, as a consequence of Defendants' unlawful acts, and that such damages be enhanced, doubled, or trebled as provided for by 17 U.S.C. § 504(c) and 15 U.S.C. § 1117(b);
