PLAINTIFFS' FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT

1. Plaintiffs DISH Network L.L.C. (“DISH”) and Sling TV L.L.C. (“Sling”) bring this action against Defendants Juan Barcan and Juan Nahuel Pereyra, individually and collectively doing business as Live-nba.stream, Freefeds.com, Sportsbay.org, and Sportsbay.tv (collectively, the “Sportsbay Websites”) for circumventing and providing technologies and services that circumvented the security measures employed by Sling, and thereby provided DISH’s television programming to users of the Sportsbay Websites (“Sportsbay users”) without authorization. Defendants’ actions violated the Digital Millennium Copyright Act, 17 U.S.C. § 1201.

NATURE OF THE ACTION

2. DISH and Sling are television service providers that deliver programming live and on demand to millions of authorized, fee-paying subscribers in the United States using security technologies provided by content protection providers. Defendants operated an illicit streaming service through the Sportsbay Websites, whereby Defendants offered Sportsbay users free access to Sling's internet transmissions of television programming by providing the means to decrypt and acquire it without authorization.

PARTIES

3. Plaintiff DISH Network L.L.C. is a limited liability company organized under the laws of the State of Colorado, with its principal place of business in Englewood, Colorado.

4. Plaintiff Sling TV L.L.C. is a Colorado limited liability company having its principal place of business in Englewood, Colorado.

5. Defendant Juan Barcan is an individual residing in Buenos Aires, Argentina that owned and operated the Live-nba.stream, Freefeds.com, Sportsbay.org, and Sportsbay.tv domains and websites. Barcan used his PayPal account to make payments to domain registrar Namecheap and GitHub for the Sportsbay Websites. Barcan operated the Sportsbay Websites with CloudFlare, GitHub, and Google accounts.

6. Defendant Juan Nahuel Pereyra is an individual residing in Buenos Aires, Argentina that owned and operated the Live-nba.stream, Freefeds.com, Sportsbay.org, and Sportsbay.tv domains and websites. Pereyra used his PayPal account to make payments to domain registrar Namecheap for the Sportsbay Websites. Pereyra operated the Sportsbay Websites with CloudFlare and Google accounts.

7. The Sportsbay Websites had similarities among their domain registrars and service providers. Each of the Sportsbay Websites used CloudFlare, Inc. as a reverse proxy, pass-through security service. Sportsbay.org, Sportsbay.tv, and Live-nba.stream each had the same Google Analytics ID, UA-187547947. Live-nba.stream and Freefeds.com each used Namecheap Inc. as the registrar and privacy protection service for the domains. Sportsbay.org used Namecheap Inc. as the registrar and privacy protected service before September 19, 2020.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

8. DISH and Sling are claiming violations of the Digital Millennium Copyright Act, 17 U.S.C. § 1201 (“DMCA”). Subject matter jurisdiction is proper in this Court under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1338.

9. Defendants are subject to personal jurisdiction in this Court because they have each purposefully directed their conduct towards, and have each purposefully availed themselves of the privileges of conducting business activities within the State of Texas by providing their infringing technologies and services to Sportsbay users in the State of Texas, circumventing the security measures employed by Sling, and thereby allowing Sportsbay users to receive DISH’s television programming without authorization and harming DISH and Sling in the State of Texas.

10. In the alternative, personal jurisdiction is proper against Defendants under Rule 4(k)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Defendants provided Sportsbay users in the United States with technologies and services circumventing the security measures employed by Sling, and thereby allowing the Sportsbay users to receive DISH’s television programming without authorization and harming DISH and Sling in the United States. This Court’s exercise of jurisdiction over Defendants is consistent with the Constitution and laws of the United States, the claims of DISH and Sling arise under federal law, and Defendants reside outside the United States and are not subject to the jurisdiction of the courts of general jurisdiction of any state. The United States was a high source of traffic for the Sportsbay Websites as shown by the following reports from Similarweb.com:

11. Venue is proper in this Court under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(3) because Defendants are subject to personal jurisdiction in this district and under § 1391(c)(3) because, upon information and belief, Defendants are nonresidents that may be sued in any judicial district. Venue is also appropriate in this Court under 28 U.S.C. § 1400(a) because DISH and Sling assert claims relating to the protection of copyrighted works.

DISH AND SLING TELEVISION PROGRAMMING

12. DISH is the fourth largest pay-television provider in the United States and delivers television programming to millions of subscribers nationwide.

13. Sling is a subsidiary of DISH and a pay-television provider in the United States that delivers television programming to millions of subscribers nationwide using the public internet (“Sling Programming”). Sling’s internet transmissions of Sling Programming are secured using digital rights management (“DRM”) technologies that include, based on the subscriber’s viewing platform, Google’s Widevine DRM, Apple’s FairPlay DRM, and Microsoft’s PlayReady DRM. Each DRM has a key-based encryption and decryption process used to make Sling Programming accessible to only authorized Sling subscribers that purchased access to that Sling Programming and restricts unauthorized access to, copying, and retransmission of Sling Programming.

14. DISH and Sling broadcast, among other things, movies, sports, and general entertainment services to consumers who have been authorized to receive such services after paying a subscription fee, or in the case of a pay-per-view movie or event, the purchase price.

15. DISH contracts for and purchases distribution rights for most of the programming that is broadcast on the Sling platform, including Sling Programming, from network affiliates, motion picture distributors, pay and specialty broadcasters, cable networks, sports leagues, and other holders of programming rights. The works broadcast by Sling are copyrighted.

DEFENDANTS' PIRACY OF SLING PROGRAMMING

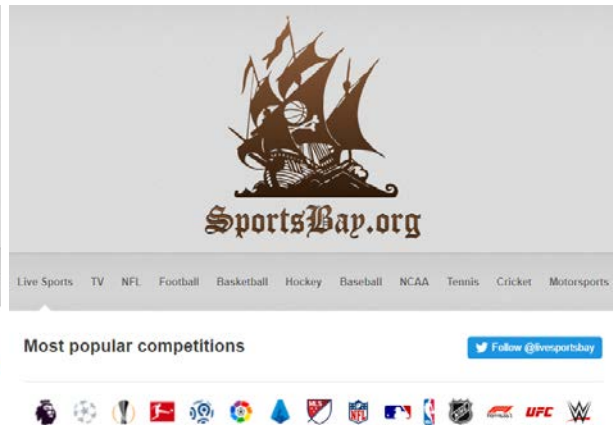

16. Defendants operated the Sportsbay Websites that circumvented the protections provided by Sling's DRM technologies, and thereby provided Sling Programming to Sportsbay users without authorization from Sling or DISH.

17. Sportsbay.org was the main website accessed by Sportsbay users. Sportsbay.tv was a mirror image of Sportsbay.org. The following screenshots show the top portion of the home pages of the Sportsbay.org and Sportsbay.tv websites, including links for Sportsbay users to access various types of television programming:

Sportsbay.org

18. The bottom portion of the home pages of Sportsbay.org and Sportsbay.tv included a section titled “Free Live Sports Streams,” and each stated, “This is a free sports live streaming website that provides multiple links to watch any match from any sport event live, securely and free” and “Stream sports live from channels like Sky Sports, Fox Sports, NBA TV, NFL Network, ESPN, TNT, NBCSports and many other world sport TV Channels.”

20. When Sportsbay users clicked on many of the links to the US TV Channels they received Sling Programming, including the following channel links: AHC, AMC, BBC America, BeinSports4, BeinSports5, BeinSports6, BeinSports7, BeinSports8, Bravo, Buzzr, CNBC, CNN, Comedy Central, Discovery Channel, ESPN Deportes, Freeform, FYI, Golf Channel, History Channel, MLB Network, National Geographic, NBC, NBC Sports, NBC Sports California, NFL Redzone, Showtime, SundanceTV, SyFy, TBS, TLC, USA Network, VH1, and WeatherNation. The following screenshot shows a Sportsbay user receiving Sling Programming for the Showtime channel at <https://sportsbay.org/watch/77870/1/shotwime-live.html>:

21. Defendants provided information on Sportsbay.org and Sportsbay.tv about their technologies and services at the bottom portion of each of the channel's pages. Defendants stated you can "Watch from anywhere online and free. No sign-up or credit card required," they provide "Free TV Channels 24/7 . . . The following screenshot shows the information provided at the bottom portion of the Showtime channel page at <https://sportsbay.org/watch/77870/1/showtime-live.html>:

marginheight='0' scrolling='no' frameborder='0' allowfullscreen='yes'
src='//sportsbay.org/embed/77870/1/showtime-live.html'></iframe>

22. When a Sportsbay user selected or clicked on a channel on Sportsbay.org or Sportsbay.tv, the websites connected to Defendants' Freefeeds.com website by embedding content originating from a Freefeeds.com Uniform Resource Locator ("URL"). The following iframe code on the Sportsbay.org website shows an example of it embedding the Showtime channel originating from the Freefeds.com website:

    <iframe id="streamIframe" name="streamframe" width="640" height="420" allowfullscreen="yes"

  <h3>Where to watch Showtime live streaming</h3>

23. The Freefeds.com iframe then accessed the encrypted Sling Programming originating from Sling's computer server assigned to the Movetv.com domain, and delivered it to the embedded iframe on the Sportsbay.org or Sportsbay.tv websites. The following network traffic analysis on the Sportsbay.org website shows an example of this for the Showtime channel:

24. The Freefeds.com iframe then connected to Defendants' Live-nba.stream computer server in order to obtain the DRM keys necessary to decrypt the Sling

Programming so that it was displayed on the Sportsbay.org and Sportsbay.tv websites. The following network traffic analysis on the Sportsbay.org website shows an example of this for the Showtime channel:

25. Defendants provided free access to television programming, including Sling Programming, to attract more users to the Sportsbay.org and Sportsbay.tv websites. Defendants monetized the Sportsbay.org and Sportsbay.tv websites through advertising on these websites. Defendants did so without authorization from DISH or Sling.

CLAIMS FOR RELIEF

COUNT I

Circumventing Technological Measures in Violation of the DMCA, 17 U.S.C. § 1201(a)(1)(A)

26. DISH and Sling repeat and reallege the allegations in paragraphs 1-25.

27. Sling uses technological protection measures, including its DRM technologies, to effectively control access to Sling Programming, which includes works protected under the Copyright Act. Sling implements these technological protection measures with the copyright owners' consent.

28. Defendants circumvented Sling's DRM technologies protecting Sling Programming each time they obtained the DRM keys necessary to decrypt the Sling Programming and each time a DRM key was sent to them by using the Sportsbay Websites to display Sling Programming during testing and for Defendants' own viewing pleasure without authorization from Sling or DISH.

29. Defendants willfully violated 17 U.S.C. § 1201(a)(1)(A) for the purpose of commercial advantage and private financial gain. Defendants knew or should have known that their actions were illegal and prohibited.

30. Defendants' violations caused damage to DISH and Sling in an amount to be determined.

31. Unless enjoined by the Court, Defendants may continue to engage in acts causing substantial and irreparable injury to DISH and Sling that includes damage to their reputation, loss of goodwill, and lost sales, for which there is no adequate remedy at law.

COUNT II

32. DISH and Sling repeat and reallege the allegations in paragraphs 1-25.

33. Defendants have manufactured, imported, offered to the public, provided, and otherwise trafficked in technologies and services in violation of 17 U.S.C. § 1201(a)(2), including through their operation of the Sportsbay Websites that allowed Sportsbay users to circumvent the security measures employed by Sling's DRM technologies protecting Sling Programming, and thereby receive Sling Programming without authorization from Sling or DISH.

34. Defendants' technologies and services were primarily designed and produced to circumvent DRM technology security measures employed by Sling; had no commercially significant purpose or use other than circumventing those security measures; and were marketed by Defendants and others known to be acting in concert with them for use in circumventing those security measures.

35. The security measures employed by Sling, which include DRM technologies, effectively control access to, copying, and distribution of copyrighted works. Defendants' actions that constitute violations of 17 U.S.C. § 1201(a)(2) were performed without the authorization or consent of DISH, Sling, or, upon information and belief, any owner of the copyrighted content broadcast by DISH and Sling. DISH and Sling are authorized to protect the copyrighted content broadcast on the Sling platform from unauthorized viewing.

36. Defendants are liable for violations of 17 U.S.C. § 1201(a)(2) for each user of the Sportsbay Websites.

37. Defendants willfully violated 17 U.S.C. § 1201(a)(2) for the purpose of commercial advantage and private financial gain. Defendants knew or should have known that their actions were illegal and prohibited.

39. Unless enjoined by the Court, Defendants may continue to engage in acts causing substantial and irreparable injury to DISH and Sling that includes damage to their reputation, loss of goodwill, and lost sales, for which there is no adequate remedy at law.
