Hello,
Meta removed my Instagram post (Report #1105774695183604) following your copyright claim, and I would like to understand it.
Could you tell me exactly which element of my post you believe was copied from your content (which photo, text or design)? Could you also share the original post or file showing that you published it first?
I am open to resolving this directly with you. If it turns out to be a misunderstanding, I would appreciate it if you could send a retraction to Meta so my post can be restored.
Thank you for your reply.

Hi everyone,
We need your help. After months of work building Remus, we recently discovered that a company has copied our concept and creative direction to sell their own books.
What they've done is deeply disrespectful to all the work we've put into Remus.
Legal action is already underway, but you can also support us by reporting their Instagram and Facebook pages.
Thank you so much for your support
